Teambuilding has been a popular topic in management literature and training for years. This workshop is not Teambuilding 101. Instead it will provide an opportunity to reflect on team building from a manager's perspective.

Kathleen Weibel has given hundreds of workshops around the country on topics related to library personnel, continuing education and library services. She retired as Director of Staff Development at the Chicago Public Library and has also been an academic library director, state library consultant, independent library consultant and young adult librarian.
